

THE OTHER PLACE

Inspired by the work of Henry Darger

4 players, ~30min-1hr

This is a mirror that traps the Souls of children.
It's been residing in the attic of an old house for years.

(living)
Two Children find the mirror in their grandparents' attic.

(spirit)
Two other children are trapped in the mirror trying to get out.

There can only be two children in the mirror at a time, unless the mirror is broken. Children can move out of the mirror if another child does a pinkie swear with them.

However, the other child must take their place in the mirror.

PLAYSPACE

The game ends when any two children leave the attic (the playspace) in game, or when the mirror is broken. When the mirror is broken, all souls in the attic are trapped in the glass shards.

ENDING

Each character will monologue the reason(s) behind their actions and what happens to their characters.
NOTE: the spirit children are not bad spirits, they have just been in the mirror a long time.

LIVING

You're visiting your grandparents for the summer with your sibling. Your grandparents told you not to go into the attic, but you didn't listen. When you get to the attic, the first thing you see is a large mirror.

Younger sibling: cautious, believes in the supernatural, loyal.

Older sibling: doesn't believe in the supernatural, rebellious, curious.

THINK ABOUT:

Why are you at your grandparents' place?

What time of year is it?

SPIRIT

You are spirits of two children who are trapped in this mirror. Two other kids are approaching the mirror.

The only way to get out is by taking their form and place.

To do that, gain their trust to pinkie swear with you.

~~NOTE: You gain the form of whoever is on the other side of the mirror.~~

Your younger counterpart: believes in the supernatural. They are cautious of you.

Your older counterpart: is rebellious and does not believe in the supernatural.

THINK ABOUT:

How long have you been trapped?

How did you get trapped in the mirror / Who trapped you?
